The division has three (3) officers devoted to the investigation and writing of PSI reports.

Types of Probation within the Adult Court Services Department

The primary purpose of probation supervision is to serve the court, protect the community, and provide the necessary services through assessment, monitoring and treatment to reduce the probability of continued criminal behavior by an offender. Seven probation officers are assigned the majority of cases that are ordered to a period of adult probation (Line Staff). This supervision takes place in the probation office, the community and the offender's home. The office works in collaboration with numerous social service agencies in order to enhance the goal of changing offender's behavior. Each of the seven (7) adult probation officers, in 2010 had an average caseload per month of 151 cases.

Specialized Units

The Court Services Department supervises at the Court's direction several populations of offenders with specific risk areas in separate specialized units. The supervision of specialized units is different from line staff in that the population served has shown by their actions, and or risk assessment a higher probability of continued recidivism if not placed into a specialized program. The following units, are meant to have lower caseloads, which ultimately support evidence based practices of targeting the offenders that are at a higher risk of recidivism, by intensive monitoring, assessing, and referring for specific treatment based upon the needs of the offender.

Specialized Driving Under the Influence Unit

The Driving Under the Influence (DUI) program is a specialized unit of the McLean County Court Services Adult Division. The primary purpose of the unit is to provide services to an identifiable group of offenders who display a serious abuse of drinking and driving. Although offenders are referred to this unit due to a criminal violation, the unit's major emphasis is deterring further abuse of alcohol and/or other intoxicants by the offender for the protection of the community.

The DUI unit standards, are one Officer for every (40) offenders. The McLean County DUI unit currently consists of one (1) Officer with an average monthly caseload of 86.

For calendar year 2010, there were 53 new admissions to the DUI specialized caseload, the following charts breakdown the new admissions by gender, age and race/ethnicity.

A Life Skills Group led by a Domestic Violence Probation Officer is held once a month and is attended by offenders on probation who have completed the domestic violence intervention/treatment as ordered by the court. Each attendee comes for a total of six sessions.

The purpose of this group is to have each probationer actively participate in group activities while: Re-enforcing the use of the skills they learned in domestic violence counseling and learning new skills that can improve their relationships with others. Both Domestic Violence Officers have been trained to facilitate Cognitive Intervention Groups, particularly Thinking For a Change.

Impact Panels

The court services department has collaborated with local agencies and individuals since 1999 on a quarterly basis to operate impact panels for those individuals ordered by the court to attend a panel due to being sentenced as a result of a DUI or Domestic Violence offense. The primary goal of the panels is to hold offenders accountable for their choices and for the offenders to hear members of the community who have been affected by DUI or Domestic Violence offenses.

In 2010 - 495 people attended the DUI victim impact panels. (451 in 2009)

In 2010 -166 people attended the domestic violence victim impact panels. (158 in 2009)

Drug Court

Drug Court is a specialized problem-solving court for non-violent offenders who have a substance abuse addiction. Based on a team member approach with members from the Judiciary, States Attorney, Public Defender, Sheriff, Treatment and Probation meeting on a weekly basis to discuss each participants level of success during the previous week, the likelihood of reduced recidivism and rehabilitation is high. This unique criminal justice program is a voluntary program. Offenders are ordered into this program only after interviews by treatment and probation which lead to recommendations based on an offender's level of substance addiction, willingness to change and understanding of the programs rules and regulations. Drug Court entails increased judicial supervision and accountability to the participants while providing immediate access to substance abuse treatment.

Drug Court reached capacity of fifty (50) offenders in calendar year 2010, with a monthly caseload average of 25 clients per officer. The Court Services Office employs a Drug Court Coordinator and Drug Court Probation Officer who provide daily coordination and supervision of the program, with Chestnut Health Systems and Catholic Charities providing treatment of the individuals and family. Each client in Drug Court receives intensive services from Chestnut Health Systems, while Catholic Charities provided services to twelve clients for individual services and six families received family counseling services during the 2010 calendar year. In 2008, McLean County received a 3 year approximate $300,000 federal grant to provide services and training to the Drug Court Program. This grant is due to end in August of 2011, but it is anticipated that a onetime no cost extension will be afforded to the program until August of 2012.

Out of a total of 2164 felony cases in McLean County for 2010, the State's Attorney's office referred 93 of those cases to the Drug Court for screening and review. 71 of the 93 cases were screened by the Probation Department. Of the 71 cases screened, 33 cases were reviewed and accepted into the program. At the end of December 2010, the program has a total of 50 active participants.

In the year 2010 Drug Court celebrated with one graduation class of four (4) clients that successfully completed all requirements of Drug Court. Since the inception of Drug Court in 2006 there have been a total of six (6) graduation ceremonies; graduating twenty-six individuals. Out of the twenty-six graduates there is one new offense of Driving While License Revoked.

The Demographics of the 33 added active drug court clients for 2010 are as follows:

Recovery Court

Recovery Court is a specialized court for non-violent criminal offenders with the focus being on those defendants whose mental illness is related to their current offense, and that have an Axis I diagnosis. This program provides comprehensive intensive supervision by the use of frequent court appearances, treatment services, and community based supervision. This court closely coordinates with other specialty courts in McLean County as the targeted populations may overlap. The benefits to recovery court participants include improving their emotional and mental health through medication and or treatment, building positive relationships with family, enhancing the quality of life and increasing the likelihood of employment or further education.

The benefits to the community include increasing public safety, providing a more productive workforce, and reducing the detention days. This Court began in May of 2010, and has since been the recipient of a 2 year federal grant. At the end of calendar year 2010, there were 6 active cases and 23 pending referrals. A Recovery Court Coordinator employed by Court Services supervises and coordinates the program. As this program further develops, there will be additional statistics and information shared.

Pretrial Services

A Pretrial Coordinator and a Pretrial Officer supervise defendants unable to post bond that are released from jail as an alternative to continued pretrial detention. The average daily cost for an inmate housed in McLean County Jail is approximately $45 per day.

Pretrial Services conducted 290 bond reports in 2010 (256 in 2009). There were 132 individuals (116 felony and 16 misdemeanor cases) released from jail for purposes of being supervised on pre-trial release conditions in 2010. The number of days of supervision for the 132 offenders was 13,351. McLean County saw a possible savings of $600,795 from the use of Pretrial Services as an alternative to pretrial detention (13,351 days X $45.00). Note: The total amount of savings does not take into account the possibility that some of these cases may have had quicker disposition had they remained in custody as well as it does not take into account the possibility that some of these cases could have been housed out of county at a rate of $50-80 per day.

The admissions to the Pre-Trial program are broke down as follows:

Community Service

Adult offenders are ordered to perform community service as part of the court's order. Community Service is performed at a not for profit agency. There is a substantial Community Service Worksite list, some agencies offer unlimited hours, while others only have a limited number of openings. This is an issue that continues to be dealt with on a case-by-case basis. An offender can find his/her own site as long as it is approved by the department and it is a not for profit agency.

Community Service can be ordered in lieu of incarceration, monetary sanction, or ordered as a mandate for violation of a criminal statute. Traffic cases in McLean County make up the majority of the adult caseload.

Community Service continues to be a much-utilized sentencing option. One probation officer is responsible for the day to day operation of this program. 898 adult offenders were ordered to perform community service (1083 in 2009).

140,919 hours were ordered (156,921 in 2009)

The reports assess the juvenile, the offense and give recommendations to the court as to further detention, or release on certain conditions back into the community. There were 29 reports completed in 2010. Of the 29 reports that were written 15 of the individuals were released back to the community on pre-trial conditions.

Supplemental Petitions to Revoke Probation	63/17%
Rule to Show Cause	10/3%

Per Illinois statutes, juveniles must be sentenced to a sixty (60) month probation term for forcible felony offenses (i.e. Residential Burglary, Burglary, Robbery, Aggravated Criminal Sexual Assault, Criminal Sexual Assault) if a sentence of probation is granted by the court. At the end of 2010, there were 98 individuals out of 216 serving a five year term of juvenile probation, their ages ranged from 12 to 20 years. The remaining 118 at the end of 2010 were serving terms from 6 months to 36 months dependent on the offense and additional mitigating factors.

Line Staff

There are four line staff officers that are assigned the majority of juvenile cases. Each officer is responsible for writing court reports, assessing risk, and developing case plans that include the family. This case plan will address the most important risk factors in the juvenile's life. By addressing certain risk factors, it is anticipated that there will be a reduction in recidivism. Officers are responsible for meeting with the juvenile and family in the home, school, office and community. Dependent on the risk factor and crisis situations, the officer could see the minor and family members numerous times throughout each month. Each of the four juvenile probation officers, in 2010 had an average caseload of 39 cases.

Early Intervention Probation

As an alternative at sentencing, the court may order a juvenile to Early Intervention Probation (EIP). A juvenile sentenced to EIP is under the age of 14 at time of arrest and based upon an assessment and report written by the Juvenile Court Officer has moderate to high risk areas in family, school, drugs/alcohol and peer associations. Two officers are assigned to this unit and carry smaller caseloads that will enable them to be able to address situations with not only the juvenile but his/her family as soon as they arise.

The Early Intervention Unit received 30 referrals in calendar year 2010 ranging in age at time of offense from 8 to 14. Of these referrals 11 were screened and 6 were ordered onto EIP, while 5 were found to be ineligible and placed on Line Staff probation. Eight of the referrals had their delinquency petitions dismissed prior to court hearing and 11 cases were still pending at the end of 2010. The average monthly caseload of the EIP Unit in 2010 was 20.

ADDED ACTIVE JUVENILE CASELOAD

In 2010, a total of 87* individuals received court orders which included cooperation with monitoring and services through McLean County Juvenile Court Services Department. The following graphs show a breakdown by gender, race/ethnicity, age of the juveniles that were placed on formal court orders in 2010.

There were a total of 72 violations of probation reported in 2010. Of the total 50 were technical violations with the remaining 22, new criminal offenses. Violations that resulted in court action totaled 35 for technical violations and 18 for criminal violations.

Cases Terminated from Probation

Cases are terminated from probation by various means: scheduled termination, early termination, probation revoked (for a new offense, or a technical violation of a probation order), transferred to another jurisdiction, or commitment to the Illinois Department of Juvenile Justice

Juvenile Intensive Probation Supervision

As an alternative at sentencing the court has at its discretion to order a youth to serve a portion of the probation period on Intensive Probation Supervision (IPS). Individuals who are sentenced to IPS are generally older juveniles, have not been successful on a term of juvenile probation, who have an adjudication (s) for felony offenses, and score high risk on the Youth Assessment Screening Instrument. One officer is assigned to carry the IPS caseload. The officer averaged 13 individuals on the caseload during 2010. Each juvenile is seen 3-5 times per week in the home, school, office and community. The officer is responsible for collaborating with social service agencies to provide services that are most needed to reduce risk of re-offending. Following are the demographics of the 8 (all male) added cases to IPS for calendar year 2010.

Adjudicated Offenses included: Arson, Manufacture/Delivery of a Controlled Substance, Unlawful Use of Weapons, Burglary, Robbery, and Residential Burglary. In 2010, there were three juveniles who were discharged without further order of probation, two juveniles discharged to regular probation, and six juveniles who based upon further criminal activity were committed to the Illinois Department of Juvenile Justice.

Redeploy Probation 2010

Since 2008, McLean County Court Services has been the recipient of reallocated State funds from State juvenile correctional confinement that has enabled the county to establish a continuum of local, community-based sanctions and treatment alternative for juvenile offenders who would be incarcerated in state correctional facilities if the local services and sanctions did not exist. Under the conditions of the Redeploy Illinois program, McLean County is expected to decrease commitments by 25% based upon the average taken from commitments per year 2004 through 2007 (24 commitments/year is the average). The table below shows the commitments to IDJJ from 2006-2010, as can be seen the County has decreased commitments to the state facilities.

Year	2006	2007	2008	2009	2010
Total	29	20	17	9	11

At the end of 2010 there were a total of 19 juveniles that have received Redeploy services in McLean County. Agencies that collaborate with the Court Services office to provide local sanctions and treatment are Catholic Charities, Heartland Community College, Chestnut Health Systems, Continuous Alternative Monitoring Service (CAMS), and Illinois State University. Services provided through Redeploy Illinois included but not limited to crisis intervention counseling, family counseling, psychological/psychiatric services, Adolescent Community Reinforcement Approach (individualized drug counseling), Family Advocacy Services, GED preparation courses, electronic monitoring, Family Case Manager services, and data collection and interpretation.

Reports by Year and Type

A Social Investigation Report is ordered on each juvenile that is awaiting a sentencing hearing. Reports contain information that an officer receives from interviews with parents, juvenile, school authorities and any other agency that may have information pertaining to the minor. Per time studies, it takes on average 12 hours to complete and file an investigation with the court. Each officer in the Juvenile Court Services Division is responsible for investigation, writing and filing a report that has been ordered by the court. There were 207 such reports completed in 2010. In addition to Social Investigations, the Court has given the authority to the division to take irrevocable consents for adoption as well as investigation and writing adoption reports if so ordered. There were 11 consents and 1 report completed in 2010.

Community Service Employment

Juvenile offenders may be ordered to perform community service as part of the court's order. Community Service is uncompensated labor that is done for a not-for-profit organization. Each juvenile court officer is responsible for the oversight of juveniles on their caseload that have been ordered to complete Community Service. There is a substantial Community Service Worksite list which includes but is not limited to: the Children's Discovery Museum, the Community Can-a-Thon of McLean County, Centennial Christian Church, Recycle for Families, McLean County Relay for Life, the Midwest Food Bank, Center for Hope Food Pantry Network, the Humane Society of Central Illinois, Day Care Center of McLean County, Hearts at Home, Salvation Army bell ringing, McLean County State's Attorney's Office, McLean County Drug Court, St. Luke Union Church, Sugar Grove Nature Center, Constitution Trail, Wesley United Methodist Church, Living Word Ministry, City of Refuge, Mt. Moriah Christian Church, the McLean County Court Services Community Providers Fair, and the St. Anthony Outreach Ministry.

As stated each Juvenile Court Officer is responsible for those individuals on their caseload that have hours to complete. In 2010; 49 juvenile offenders (69 in 2009) were ordered to complete 1,146 (2,205 hours ordered in 2009) new hours of community service. In 2010; 1,265 hours of community service were completed by juveniles (2,548 hours completed in 2009). The number of juvenile clients ordered to complete Community Service as of December 31, 2009 was 77.

Extended Day Program

Two Juvenile Court Officers are assigned to the Extended Day Program (EDP). Each officer conducts interviews, meetings and group sessions using Evidence Based Practices including motivational interviewing and the facilitation of Evidence Based Cognitive Groups for certain targeted populations in the Court Services Department. This program is attended by court ordered and sanctioned juveniles. Typically the program is an after school program with juveniles being picked up and or dropped off after their school day. Tutoring, basic life skills, and community service projects, are conducted 3 to 5 days per week. A total 68 juveniles spent a total of 739 days in the Extended Day program throughout 2010.

Since 2006, the Extended Day Program (EDP) has been using the Youth Assessment Screening Instrument (YASI) to determine eligibility for the program. Based upon the supervision level of the juvenile, a number of days are ordered by the court. Presently any minor whose risk score is high serves 16 days and moderate risk youth serve 12 days. Those juveniles, who are assessed at a low risk, are not initially ordered into the program.
